Join CREST in Cuba: Charter Club Trip Announced

WASHINGTON, DC - Is Cuba on your travel to-do list? Here's your chance for a once-in-a-lifetime visit with the Center for Responsible Travel (CREST)! CREST is hosting a specially designed eight day/seven night Charter Club trip with a focus on 'eco-surf and turf' – a selection of the island's most extraordinary marine, cultural, and natural tourism offerings. The trip, scheduled for January 24 – 31, 2016, will include visits to Cuba's original ecolodge, La Moka, and other nature-tourism destinations in the Vinales Valley, which is considered by many the most beautiful place in Cuba. It will also include snorkeling, birding and/or scuba diving on the Guanahacabibes Peninsula. The tour will conclude in Havana, with a stay in recently renovated old city hotel, meals in local restaurants ("paladares"), meetings with leading artists, musicians, health and tourism officials, marine biologists, salsa lessons and musical performances, and visits to various must-see sites including La Finca Vigia, where Ernest Hemingway wrote Old Man and the Sea.

The cost is $3325 per person, double occupancy, including the flight to and from Miami. Space is strictly limited, and participants will be accepted on a first-come-first-serve basis. Interested parties will be notified of registration status by a CREST staff member as soon as possible. If demand exceeds supply, a second trip may be coordinated. Please let us know if you are open to attending at a later date upon expression of interest.
